"It is a reverend thing to see an ancient castle or building not in decay, or to see a fair timber tree sound and perfect; how much more to behold an ancient noble Family which hath stood against the waves and weathers of time?" - Bacon.

DESCENDANTS
BARNABAS DAVIS,
SON OF JAMES

THE FAMILY NAME DAVIS (from David - "well-be-loved"), is found in many variations: Davie, Davies, Davidson, Dawes, Dawson, Dawkes, Dawkins, Dawkinson, Dayes, Dayson, Dakin - and though of ancient standing in Wales, only scarcely appears in England before the Conquest.

Of all of these families, so far as we are aware, no record has yet been compiled to show our branches of the many Davis families. We say many Davis families, for though the early records are quite clear as to BARNABAS DAVIS, SON OF JAMES, and we know he was one of the first settlers in New England, we learn also that there were other Davis families represented in the early American pioneers, with the ties between many of them unknown. Thus, the problem of tracing one particular Davis family in America becomes very complex, indeed in some cases, impossible of solution, for at about the same time that BARNABAS DAVIS came to America there were at least four other early Davis family settlers:

James Davis; b. about 1584; to New England about 1634; Hampton, 1638; Haverhill, 1646.

Dolar Davis; b. 1590; from England, 1634; Cambridge, Mass.

Nathaniel Davis; came in the "Hercules," 1634.

William Davis; b. 1617; from Wales, 1635.

If separating the offspring from these early settlers does not offer perplexity enough, consider the conglomeration of Davises confused by the following arrivals before 1700:

John Davis; Barnstable, Mass; brought goods in his boat, 1637.

Robert Davis; b. 1608; from England, 1638.

George Davis; Salem, 1641; brother was one of the overseers of Lynn.

William Davis; gunsmith; sold land in Boston, 1646.

John Davis; Newbury, Mass.; m. in New England, 1647.

John Davis; b. England, 1624; on Haverhill-Salisbury boundary committee, 1650.

Thomas Davis (the elder); from Wales; settled in Maryland after 1600.

John Davis; b. England 1612; four children came with him; d. Long Island, 1705.

Samuel Davis; b. Ireland, 1669; d. Pennsylvania, 1758.

Benjamin Davis; from Scotland prior to 1700.

James Davis and John Davis; from England about 1700; settled in Virginia.

Nevertheless, we have endeavored as best we could to follow the various lines of DESCENDANTS OF BARNABAS DAVIS, SON OF JAMES - a work of mere search and compilation - and also, we have attempted to contact the many now living for information pertinent to continuation of the genealogy - a process slower of accomplishment but far more interesting and human.

The numbering and arrangement are those recommended by the New England Historic Genealogical Society, the numbering, however, being presently applied only to the male lines. The reference mark "#" signifies that this line is continued under the number assigned.

To make the reading more interesting, only a few abbreviations are used; also, in order not to clutter up the text with many references, which often makes reading unattractive, references are grouped after each family. A complete bibliography will follow.

That there are errors, there can be little doubt; those brought to our attention will be corrected with appreciation.

If interested in heraldry, we find that of all the Davis coats of arms, that of Northamptonshire, England, is the one most widely used. It is de-described in Burke's General Armory, Burke's Landed Gentry, Burke's Peerage and Baronetage and in other reliable works on heraldry. It has been used for generations by many American branches of the Davis Family and is described as follows:

Arms: Gules, a chevron engrailed between three boar's heads erased argent.
(A chevron between three silver boar's heads on a red shield.)

Crest: On a chapeau gules, turned up ermine, a boar statant.
(A boar standing upon a red hat with a turned-up ermine brim.)

Motto: Virtute duce comite fortuna.
(Under the guidance of valor, accompanied by good fortune.)

Sir Bernard Burke, of Herald's College, London, said, "Heraldry is prized by all who can show honorable ancestry or wish to found honorable families."

DESCENDANTS OF BARNABAS DAVIS,
SON OF JAMES

1ST AND 2ND GENERATIONS

1. James Davis, of England.

2. Barnabas Davis.
(James (1))

Son of James Davis, b. in England about 1599; d. at Charlestown, Mass., 27(28) Nov, 1685. He m. (1) Elizabeth _____; (2) Patience _____; b. about 1608; d. 15 Nov, 1690.

Barnabas Davis, (called Barnaby in some records), the progenitor of this branch of the many Davis families, was b. in England about 1599. He came to America from Tewkesbury, England, in July, 1635, in the ship "Blessing," and gave his age at that time as 36 years. Settling in Charlestown, Mass., the records list him as a tallow-chandler, or a maker of, and dealer in, tallow candles. He was in the employ of John and William Woodcock, when he made several journeys to Connecticut, and in 1640/1, he brought suit against them for wages. He mentioned a brother, Reade, in England.

Barnabas Davis owned considerable real estate for his time, the records showing several transactions. On 8 Jan, 1643/4, he was granted two acres on Lovell's Island. In 1658, he was at "the division of wood and commons on the Mistick side." On 4 Apr, 1659, he deposed that he was then about 60 years old. Six years later he purchased from John Cutler three-fourths of an acre in Eastfield, on the side of Bunker Hill, which was bounded southwest by a highway through a field; on the southeast by R. Lowden; on the northwest by N. Hutcheson; and on the northeast by his own property, with "a cartway to be provided for Cutler through this lot and part of the Davis lot on the southeast, or marsh, side."

According to the town book, Barnabas Davis was required to make 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ poles of fence in Eastfield in 1667/8. On 24 Dec, 1678, but not recorded until 1685, he deeded to his son Nathaniel "one-half of the house and land I bought of M. Smith in exchange for land he bought of Smith where my son now dwelleth, and the leanto adjoining and seven feet of land backward for a ladder to the leanto." Witnesses to this were Richard and Jonathan Kettle and Lawrence Dowse.

In 1681, he was granted "two commons," and the following year he sold to Thomas Pearse three acres bounded on the south by the Mystic river; on the west by Wildredge's hill; on the north by range; on the west by driftway; and on the east and south by Thomas Pearse. He deeded to his son Hopewell, in 1683, "the other part of the estate," bounded south and southeast by a street; northwest by Crooked lane; northeast by garden and house of Nathaniel Davis; southwest by Lawrence Dowse. Barnabas, then about 74 years of age, was given "liberty to occupy the leanto." There was a grant of three and one-half acres in 1685, bounded east and south by two-pole way; southwest by T. Creswell; west and north by John Fosdick, T. Marble and A. Fowle; and northeast by Lidia Marshall.

With his sons Nathaniel and Hopewell, and Patience, five acres "on the Mystic side" were deeded to Thomas Willis in 1685 (recorded 1694/5), bounded southwest by Brattle's marsh; northeast by Sprague's marsh "now of Lawrence Dowse's children and B. Switzer." with a highway running through the northeast side.

The inventory of Barnabas Davis was sworn to 15 Feb, 1685/6, amounting to 96 pounds. He d. either 27, or 28, Nov, 1685, "ae about 86 years."

Elizabeth Davis, perhaps first wife of Barnabas, was admitted to the church in Charlestown, Mass., 8 Jan, 1635. His second wife, Patience, d. 15 Nov, 1690, ae 87 years, outliving Barnabas by about five years.

There were six children according to the records, as follows:

- 3 #Samuel, d. 28 Dec, 1699.
- 4 Barnabas, ae 24(28) in 1663.
- 5 Patience, ae 21 in 1661; m. William Ridland.
- 6 #Nathaniel, ae 40 in 1682.
- 7 #Hopewell, d. 17 Aug, 1712.
- 8 #James, d. about 1650.

the selectman's records in Charlestown, Mass., his wife and five children were with him "from Groton" at W. Ridland's in Charlestown on 20 March, 1675/6.
Wyman states that Barnabas and wife Hannah, of Littleton, Mass., 1731, may have been of this family.

His will was devised to John, Nathaniel and Sam-

Nathaniel Davis by trade was a glazier and a sawyer. Like his father, he handled considerable real estate for his time, Charlestown records showing that in 1678 he bought of Matthew Smith, Sr., land which was bounded on the northwest by a street, 42, northeast by Matthew Smith; southwest by house and ground of Nathaniel Davis, rear 31 feet. The same year there was a transaction "to and of Barnabas Davis (ref. J. Melvin)," and in 1685 "with Barnabas Davis to Thomas Willis." In 1690, he was listed in Charlestown as "one of the constables." In 1693, with Thomas Russell, M. Watkins and P. Russell, to S. Whittemore were deeded three and one-third acres "commons second division Mystic side," bounded on the south by B. Sweetser, Ann Shepherd, and east to north then west by the Medford river, one-half circle.

In 1710/1, there was recorded to his son Zechariah (ref. D. Devens), a gift of land 29 feet front on S. Kidder, "straight line, 37, etc," and in 1713 (not recorded until 1734/5), a transaction in which his wife did not join, four and one-half acres "first division land laid to John Pentecost," were deeded to John Tufts, bounded on the north and northwest by a highway; southeast by widow Gould; and southwest by Jonathan Crouch. His wife Mary joined him in 1716/7 to deed to widow Sarah Newell land which was bounded on the north by Bow street, 10 feet; east by S. Kidder, 37; south by Sarah Newell's land "belonging to house late of Zechariah Davis, 24;" west by Nathaniel Davis, 46; with "a three-foot way at west to come at land."

He had a legacy from Alexander Mitchell in 1717/8. To his son Zechariah, in 1721, he deeded one-half wood-lot, whole 13½ acres "first division Mystic side, No. 50, between R. Long and B. Wilson." Also, four and one-half acres and four and one-half acres more enclosed with others by Jonathan Green, second division, No. 50. The next year (ref. R. Foster, Jr.) he deeded to Joseph Hopkins three-fourths of an acre on Bunker Hill, bounded southwest by highway, one chain, 48 links; northwest by Joseph Rand, five chains, 24 links; northeast by heirs of Nathaniel and Hopewell Davis, one chain, 60 links; and southeast by same, five chains, 39 links.

In 1724, his neighbors were listed as Rebecca Center, Elizabeth Miller and Elizebeth Lewis. He left a house bounded on the east by a cow lane, 25; west by Eben Rand's land, fenced to Bow street; northwest by Bow street, 20 feet 9; and north by Mrs. Grant's land, fenced.

His wife, Mary (Converse) Davis, was admitted to the church at Charlestown, Mass., 15 Apr, 1677. Wyman states that one daughter lived at Marblehead, Mass., who m. in 1724.

Lowden one-half acre bounded north and east by Hopewell Davis; south by Jacob Green; and west by a field highway. He had a real estate transaction with his father Barnabas in 1683, and in 1685, with his father, to Willis.

1658 when he had "four acres, one common," and when he was in a transaction with Barnabas Davis to one Willis. He was in Scituate in 1673 "when he had lands in the Conihasset laid out," and in 1675 when he "sold a house in Charlestown."

James Davis and wife sold to S. Green, in 1693/4, 14 acres woods, second division, bounded on the north by Mystic bridge; north and south by Carter; south by John Cutler; east by Joseph Kettle; and west by E. Wilson. And, in 1715, as recorded on p. 63 of the town book, he sold to H. Phillips "four acres woods No. 196, north side Medford river."

4TH GENERATION

11. John Davis.

Son of Samuel and Mary (Waters) Davis; b. 10 March, 1664, d. 25 Oct. 1704. He m. Mehitable Shedd.

Child (probably more):

39 Sarah, b. 1694; m. Lt. John Holden.

(Ref: Holden, Putnam; Vol. I, pp. 47, 76, 112. Compend. Amer. Gen.; Vol. IV, p. 271.)

31. Zechariah Davis.
(Nathaniel(3), Barnabas(2), James(1))

90. Jonah Davis.

(Richard(6), Randall(5), Randall(4), James(3), Barnabas(2), James(1))

Son of Richard and Lois (Whitney) Davis; b. at Jaffrey, N.H., 5 Oct, 1788; d. at Marlborough, N.H., 24 March, 1856. He m. at Marlborough, 20 Aug, 1818, Sarah Wilkinson, dau. of David and Ruth (Allen) Wilkinson. She was b. at Marlborough, N.H., 29 Oct, 1790.

Previous to his marriage, Jonah Davis purchased the house in Marlborough, N.H., into which he moved with his bride on his wedding day, and which they made their home during his life; his widow occupied the house as late as 1881.

Daniel Davis was a shoemaker. He learned his trade from Walter Gates in Marlborough, having "bought his time" of his father at the age of 18. On reaching the age of 21, he found himself in debt to the amount of $200, on account of sickness. Having in a few years mastered his trade, he paid off this indebtedness by his earnings and, with only a small sum in his purse, he made his way on foot seeking employment. With his tools and all his earthly goods strapped up in his leather apron, he reached Cambridge, Mass., where he engaged to work at his trade for three months for Enoch Train, a custom boot and shoe manufacturer. Mr. Train engaged him for a term of three years, but before the term had expired, Train was appointed high sheriff of Middlesex County, and the charge of the county jail devolved upon him; but, on account of his other frequent calls to other official duties, this charge was entrusted to Jonah Davis, who served him in this capacity during the remainder of the term.

At the expiration of three years, Jonah Davis returned to Marlborough and entered into partnership with his former master in the business of custom boot and shoe making. About 1815, they erected "the little red shop," (still standing in 1881), on the corner near the library building; and here, for more than 40 years, early and late, Jonah Davis drove his pegs and drew the wax-ends and worked faithfully at his humble calling.

His habits of industry, economy and order were remarkable, and exerted a marked and salutary influence in the community. He was a man of decided convictions and held his political and religious opinions with no uncertain grasp. He was uncompromising in his adherence to principle and rights and was true to his political, religious and temperance principles, even when it cost alienation of friends to be so.

As a citizen, he was always interested in the cause of education, temperance and whatever pertained to the welfare of the town and village, often suggesting improvements and aiding in their summation. He first suggested the location of the present cemetery and was active in having the tract of land set apart for its present use. His interest in civic and religious matters was made manifest also by his subscriptions to such items as painting the meeting-house, purchasing a new bell for same and for erecting a new church. He was appointed postmaster 4 July, 1825, and was town moderator for seven years between 1830 and 1837, and was town treasurer for five years.

Yes, Jonah Davis was a shoemaker, but he deserved to be classed among the best. He was one that used to attend strictly to business. Well-informed and social, still he allowed no loiterer to hang around his shop. The young that came in were wont to receive the best of advice and were encouraged to be faithful in school and dutiful at home. He was described as "a man of mental strength, good judgment, and emulous to do good as he had opportunity." His wife was known as "a woman of remarkably good common sense and generous feeling."

At the Centennial Celebration of Marlborough, the Rev. Wallingford presented a 68-verse poem in which both Jonah Davis and his wife were publicly recognized.

Then Tucker and Davis, the Holmans and Ward
And Jonathan Whitcomb and E.B. Wallingford,
Were considered to be the firm business men,
In the year of our Lord eighteen twenty-one.

The next one in order, permit me to say,
And the one that made boots and shoes every day,
Was Davis, our neighbor, who stuck to his trade,
As all could attest by the shoes that he made.

.....
Mrs. Davis, a lady in stature quite small,
But to me the fairest and best of them all;
If she were not present to hear what I say,
I'd speak of her virtues more freely today.....

There was only child according to the records,
as follows:

122 #Edwin, b. 8 May, 1821.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations

$$\begin{cases} \Delta u = f(x, y, z, u, v, w) \\ \Delta v = g(x, y, z, u, v, w) \\ \Delta w = h(x, y, z, u, v, w) \end{cases} \quad (1)$$ in the domain D bounded by the surface S , where f, g, h are continuous functions of their arguments, and u, v, w are the unknown functions.

2. In the second part, we consider the case when the functions f, g, h are linear with respect to u, v, w , and we obtain the following theorem:

Theorem 1. Let the functions f, g, h be linear with respect to u, v, w , and let the coefficients of the linear functions be continuous in D . Then the system (1) has a unique solution in D if and only if the determinant of the coefficients of the linear functions is not equal to zero.

3. In the third part, we consider the case when the functions f, g, h are quadratic with respect to u, v, w , and we obtain the following theorem:

Theorem 2. Let the functions f, g, h be quadratic with respect to u, v, w , and let the coefficients of the quadratic functions be continuous in D . Then the system (1) has a unique solution in D if and only if the determinant of the coefficients of the quadratic functions is not equal to zero.

4. In the fourth part, we consider the case when the functions f, g, h are cubic with respect to u, v, w , and we obtain the following theorem:

Theorem 3. Let the functions f, g, h be cubic with respect to u, v, w , and let the coefficients of the cubic functions be continuous in D . Then the system (1) has a unique solution in D if and only if the determinant of the coefficients of the cubic functions is not equal to zero.

5. In the fifth part, we consider the case when the functions f, g, h are of higher order with respect to u, v, w , and we obtain the following theorem:

Theorem 4. Let the functions f, g, h be of higher order with respect to u, v, w , and let the coefficients of the functions be continuous in D . Then the system (1) has a unique solution in D if and only if the determinant of the coefficients of the functions is not equal to zero.

6. In the sixth part, we consider the case when the functions f, g, h are of arbitrary order with respect to u, v, w , and we obtain the following theorem:

Theorem 5. Let the functions f, g, h be of arbitrary order with respect to u, v, w , and let the coefficients of the functions be continuous in D . Then the system (1) has a unique solution in D if and only if the determinant of the coefficients of the functions is not equal to zero.

7. In the seventh part, we consider the case when the functions f, g, h are of arbitrary order with respect to u, v, w , and we obtain the following theorem:

There were 15 children according to the records, of which the second was:

#John, b. 1685(?).

(Ref: Holden, Putnam; pp. 77-85.)

John Holden.
(Stephen(2), Richard(1))

Son of Stephen and Hannah (Lawrence) Holden; b. at Groton, Mass., 1685(?); d. 27 Dec, 1753, in 69th year (g.s.). He m. 22 Nov, 1716, 39. Sarah Davis, dau. of John and Mehitable (Shedd) Davis. She was b. 22 Sep, 1694 and d. at Groton, Mass., 21 Dec, 1753, in 59th year (g.s.).

John Holden and his wife, Eleazer Nutting and Abigail his wife, Benjamin Farnsworth, Jr., and Patience his wife, all of Groton, Mass., children of John Davis, deceased, conveyed 26 acres in Groton to John Pratt, 15 Nov, 1731, "late of Malden, now of Groton," for 13 pounds and security given for maintenance of their mother Mehitable Davis of Groton, set off to her as part of her dower. In another deed the same parties, with Lydia Davis, spinster, 2 Sep, 1727, conveyed land laid out to the ancient right of Samuel Davis.

John Holden was held captive by the Indians in Canada for one year and 10 months. He served in the campaign against the Indians in 1734, under Captain William Tyng, as we learn from the petition of his son Caleb to the General Court in 1773, setting forth the above fact, and that John Holden was subsequently entitled to one right in the township granted Tyng's command, which township, upon establishment of the line between Massachusetts and New Hampshire, fell in the latter province and was lost to the grantees. Caleb was then of Deerfield, and named as other heirs Amos, Isaiah, Nehemiah and David Holden, Sarah Hartwell, Rachel Gould and Hannah Blood. The General Court of Resolve 25 June, 1773, granted these heirs 400 acres to be laid out in any of the unappropriated lands of the province. 121 acres were laid out to them at the northwest corner of grants to Ross and Hezekiah Wyman, and 40 acres in Charmont, bounded easterly on the river. Approval of the plat of the remaining 237 acres was withheld until further action of the General Court.

John Holden was a farmer in Groton, Mass. Town and probate records, and his g.s., describe him as lieutenant. He conveyed to Captain Jonas Prescott, 30 Oct, 1723, all right in land laid out by a committee of proprietors 7 Dec, 1721, to a 14½-acre right, 10 acres of which right was originally Christopher Hall's, and the remaining four and one-half acres was part of the right of Richard Holden.

John Holden, describing himself as "of Groton, gentleman," made his will 25 Dec, 1753, which was probated 11 March, 1754. He nominated his son, Amos Holden, executor, and gave to his two sons, Isaiah and David, his homestead between them, and all the buildings between it and the lands now claimed by Captain Samuel Tarball and Lieutenant Eleazer Green, and a town-way going over the River bridge, also six acres of orchard and plow land, and to each a three-acre common right. Isaiah to pay his sisters Sarah Hartwell and Rachel, £ 6-3-4 each; David, described as "youngest son," one year after he is of age, to pay his sisters, Lois Holden and Hannah Blood, £ 6-13-4 each. To his son Nehemiah Holden all lands not disposed of to sons Caleb and Amos on the west side of Squannacook river, about 100 acres. Nehemiah to pay Sarah Hartwell and daughter Rachel, and Hannah Blood, each £ 6-18-3. To eldest son Caleb a two and one-half-acre right which with what he had had was his portion. To son Amos one red cow and a three-acre right, which with what he had had was his portion. To daughter Sarah Hartwell, 16 acres by little Cold Spring. Stephen Holden was one of the witnesses.

The inventory of "Lt. John Holden" disclosed real estate, £ 283; personal, £ 77. The account of his executor contains payment of items pertaining to the burial of both John Holden and his widow, and the procuring of a double gravestone, which is still standing, one of the quaint characteristic memorials of the period. It also mentions Jonathan Holden "brother of the deceased." David Holden, ae 14 years, chose Amos Laurance of Groton his guardian, .5 July, 1755.

All of the children mentioned below, except John and Lois, joined in a deed 23 Apr, 1760, conveying 12 acres on the west side of Lancaster river.

There were 10 children according to the records, all b. in Groton, Mass., as follows:

Sara, b. 5 Sep, 1717; m. Samuel Hartwell.

John, b. 15 Oct, 1719; d. in lifetime of his father, unm. Probably the John Holden of Groton who enlisted 15 Apr, 1743, and served to 17 Oct, in company commanded by Captain Edward Hartwell; raised in Townsend, Lunenburg, Narragansett No. 2 and Leominster.

Caleb Holden.

(John(3), Stephen(2), Richard(1))

Son of John and Sarah (Davis); b. at Groton, Mass., 1 Feb, 1723/4; d. at Shelburne, Mass., later than May, 1795. He m. (1) Abigail _____, who was living in 1761. He m. (2), at Deerfield, Mass., 14 Sep, 1766, Mary Farley.

Caleb Holden lived in that part of Groton, Mass., set off as Shirley, but in the warning by Deerfield selectmen, 13 Dec, 1766 (1765), he is described as "lately an inhabitant of Pepperell." In the record of a deed dated 13 Oct, 1760, in which he and his wife, Abigail, join in conveying to Nehemiah Holden 58 acres in Shirley, with a small dwelling house on the property, he is described as of North No. 2, New Hampshire. It is quite possible that "New Hampshire" is a mistake for Hampshire county, in which Colrain was known as Boston No. 2. "North No. 2" was Westmoreland, N.H., which in 1752 was regranted by New Hampshire as Great Meadows. In 1769, he again appears as selling land in Shirley, and again is described as "of No. 2 N.H.," but at that date he was undoubtedly a resident of Shelburne, which was formerly a part of Deerfield, for he that year obtained judgment against John Gilson of Sunderland for an unpaid note dated 1 Dec, 1769. In the same year judgment was had against him, as also in 1784 and 1794, in all of which proceedings he is called of Shelburne. The records of Westmoreland, and also the Provincial papers of New Hampshire concerning that township, are silent concerning the residence there of Caleb Holden.

In August, 1772, he was accused of having slain a deer, but the witness for the government, Timothy Farley, failed to appear, and the case was continued, only to be dropped as both he and all witnesses defaulted at the next term of Court.

In June, 1773, on petition of Caleb Holden of Deerfield, the General Court granted to the heirs of John Holden land in or adjoining Colrain, as equivalent land for a grant to the soldiers who served under Colonel Tyng, of whom John, the father of Caleb, was one. This petition and grant, even if no other evidence were available, establishes Caleb's place in the family. Four hundred acres were granted but it appears that 237 acres were not then laid out, being withheld until further order of the General Court.

In February, 1786, Caleb Holden is described as of "North River, Hampshire County," when he conveyed to David Field 131 acres in Buckland, apparently as security, as in Jan, 1794, Samuel Field, executor of David, sued Caleb Holden on a note for £ 45, dated 11 Feb, 1786, the date of the deed. On 11 May, 1787, described as of "the Gore of land, adjoining Shelburne and Colrain," he sold to Edward Giles of Charlemont all his interest in the grant of land by the General Court, June, 1773, to heirs of "my father John Holden;" and Giles, 4 Oct, 1795, conveyed this same interest to Elihu Holden of Buckland. This may have been after the death of Caleb, who was probably living in May, 1795, when his son Caleb is described as "Junior."

In 1790, Caleb Holden was enumerated at Shelburne as head of a family consisting of three males over 16 years of age, three under 16, and one female. There is no settlement of his estate.

Family tradition, recorded by Dr. H. H. Holden, asserted that Caleb Holden d. in the Revolutionary period, leaving a family of seven orphans who were adopted by relatives and friends in the neighborhood, at Ballston Spa and Galway, N. Y. It was also asserted that John was killed in the war and never married.

Mary (Farley) Holden was warned by Deerfield selectmen 4 Sep, 1766, and was described as "an inhabitant of Medford."

Amos Holden.

(John(3), Stephen(2), Richard(1))

Son of John and Sarah (Davis) Holden; b. at Groton, Mass., 18 June, 1728; d. at Shirley, Mass., 28 March, 1804. He m. (1) at Groton, Mass., 6 Feb, 1750/1, Prudence Holden, dau. of Nathaniel and Abigail (Stone) Holden. She was b. at Groton, Mass., 26 Apr, 1730, and d. at Shirley, Mass., 21 Nov, 1762. He m. (2), Sarah Blood, who d. in 1800.

Amos Holden of Shirley, and Prudence his wife, Jabez Holden, Asa Holden of Groton, Jonathan Sawtell and Mary his wife, and Seth Walker and Abigail his wife, sell to Isaac Holden of Groton, yeoman, five out of seven shares in house, land, etc, set off to our mother Abigail Holden of Groton, deceased, it being her part of the estate of her husband Nathaniel Holden, 10 Nov, 1757.

In the early autumn of 1746, the Duke d'Anville, in command of a French fleet, threatened Boston, and the militia from the country to the number of 8,000 men were summoned for the defense of the capital. The Groton company, commanded by Captain William Lawrence, responded, and in its ranks was Amos Holden.

In the Groton company commanded by Captain Henry Haskell, Prescott's regiment, which responded to the Lexington Alarm, 19 Apr, 1775, were Amos Holden and his son Amos. The elder man served seven days, but the younger enlisted in the army, as did his brothers Abel and John.

As executor of the estate of John Holden, Amos sold, 10 Apr, 1759, "11 acres on the west side of Lancaster river, formerly laid out to Richard Holden, bounded north by Timothy Cooper, east by the river."

On 22 Apr, 1760, he joined with his brothers Caleb, David, Isaiah and Nehemiah, and his sisters with their husbands, in conveying 12 acres on the west side of the river.

In 1784, Amos Holden gave a promissory note to Nathaniel Hayward, which passed into the hands of Abraham Adams of Boston, who obtained Judgment against the maker. In Apr, 1789, Amos Holden leased his farm in Shirley for three years to his son John, who had his own stock on the place. In Dec, 1790, Joseph Moore, Esq., of Groton, acting for Adams, replevined a cow, hog, etc., which proved to be property of John Holden, who thereupon brought suit against the Moore. The case was finally carried to the Supreme Court and decided in John Holden's favor, who produced ample testimony to prove his good faith in the premises, that he had purchased his animals from various parties and had paid taxes on the land. The case was not settled until 1793.

His home was on the east side of the Townsend road, north of Mulpus Brook, and here, in the house which was standing until about 1856, 16 of his children were b., all, it is said, in the same room. Amos Holden, Jr., 1 Oct, 1790; "then of Mason, N.H.," conveyed to his brother Abel his right in the land and house occupied by his father, which was part of his mother's estate and was undivided among the heirs. Moses Holden succeeded to the ownership of the place. This was later the Amos Day farm.

In 1790, Amos Holden was enumerated as the head of a family consisting of himself, one other male over 16, three males under 16, and five females.

There were 16 children according to the records: five children by the first marriage and 11 children by the second marriage, all b. in Shirley, Mass., as follows:

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation

$$f(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $f(x)$ is continuous and differentiable on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$ and that its derivative is given by the formula

$$f'(x) = \frac{1}{1+x^2}$$

Furthermore, it is proved that the function $f(x)$ is bounded on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$ and that its range is the interval $(0, \pi/2)$.

2. In the second part of the paper, we consider the function $g(x)$ defined by the equation

$$g(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $g(x)$ is continuous and differentiable on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$ and that its derivative is given by the formula

$$g'(x) = \frac{x}{1+x^2}$$

Furthermore, it is proved that the function $g(x)$ is bounded on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$ and that its range is the interval $(-\pi/4, \pi/4)$.

3. In the third part of the paper, we consider the function $h(x)$ defined by the equation

$$h(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t^2}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $h(x)$ is continuous and differentiable on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$ and that its derivative is given by the formula

$$h'(x) = \frac{x^2}{1+x^2}$$

Furthermore, it is proved that the function $h(x)$ is bounded on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$ and that its range is the interval $(0, \pi/2)$.

THEORY OF THE EARTH'S CRUST

1. The Earth's Crust is the uppermost layer of the Earth's exterior, extending from the surface down to the Mohorovičić Discontinuity (Moho).

2. The thickness of the crust varies from about 5 km under the oceans to about 70 km under the continents.

3. The crust is composed of various types of rocks, including igneous, sedimentary, and metamorphic rocks.

4. The crust is divided into two main layers: the upper crust and the lower crust.

5. The upper crust is the layer closest to the surface, while the lower crust is the layer below the upper crust.

6. The boundary between the upper and lower crust is known as the Mohorovičić Discontinuity (Moho).

7. The Moho is characterized by a sharp increase in seismic wave velocity.

8. The thickness of the crust is determined by a variety of factors, including the type of crust (oceanic or continental) and the age of the crust.

9. The crust is constantly being renewed through the processes of plate tectonics and magma rising from the mantle.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations

$$\frac{dx}{dt} = f(x, y, z), \quad \frac{dy}{dt} = g(x, y, z), \quad \frac{dz}{dt} = h(x, y, z),$$ where f, g, h are continuous functions of x, y, z and satisfy certain conditions.

2. In the second part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are linear in x, y, z .

3. The third part is devoted to the study of the stability of the solutions of the system.

4. In the fourth part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are periodic in t .

5. The fifth part is devoted to the study of the bifurcation of solutions.

6. In the sixth part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are analytic.

7. The seventh part is devoted to the study of the asymptotic behavior of the solutions.

8. In the eighth part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are bounded.

9. The ninth part is devoted to the study of the global existence of solutions.

10. In the tenth part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are Lipschitz continuous.

11. The eleventh part is devoted to the study of the uniqueness of solutions.

12. In the twelfth part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are piecewise continuous.

13. The thirteenth part is devoted to the study of the qualitative properties of the solutions.

14. In the fourteenth part, we consider the case where the functions f, g, h are discontinuous.

15. The fifteenth part is devoted to the study of the existence of periodic solutions.
